Tossed Enriches Education for Local Preschoolers

Tossed and Los Angeles Universal Preschool (LAUP) have partnered on a creative contest aimed at raising money for Los Angeles County preschools.

Since 2005, LAUP has supported the operation and/or development of hundreds of preschools in the area, helping more than 50,000 children receive a quality and affordable preschool education through enriching curricula and nurturing environments aimed to best prepare children to succeed in kindergarten and beyond.

For the contest and fundraiser, employees at LAUP's headquarters will design specialty salads using menu items from the Design Your Own selections on Tossed's menu.

One will be chosen, and the winning salad will be featured on the menu at Tossed's newest location, 700 Wilshire Boulevard in the Heart of Los Angeles' financial district, directly across from the Aon Center. Whenever anyone purchases the LAUP winning salad, Tossed LA will donate a portion of the proceeds to LAUP, in support of its mission.

"The partnership with Tossed is a great opportunity for a non-profit and a local business to work hand-in-hand in supporting high-quality, early childhood education that helps foster a future skilled and educated workforce," says Celia C. Ayala, LAUP's CEO.

"Not only will it be an honor to have one of our employees' salad creations be featured on the menu at Tossed here in L.A., but thousands of L.A. preschoolers will ultimately benefit from this partnership."

"We are thrilled to be partnering with LAUP to advance the cause of universal preschool in Los Angeles County," says Michael Jenkins, co-owner of the Tossed L.A. franchise.

Tossed is a nationwide franchise chain known for its distinctive menu and modern, fast-casual ambience. The Los Angeles eatery is the chain's seventh location and 68 more are in the works around the country.
